REPORT

OF THE

Supervisor of Schools.

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 12, 1894.

In preparing the annual report of the Public Schools of this town, for the past year, we have found so many subjects of a general nature claiming notice, and deserving the consideration of the citizens of the town, that we have refrained from making special mention of each district and school by itself, as has generally been the custom heretofore. We have, however, endeavored to treat, under its appropriate topic, of every matter which seemed of sufficient importance to justify it, whether it related to all the schools in general, or only one in particular. If any disappointment is felt at missing the special mention of one's own district school, we believe the loss will be more than compensated by securing a more general and disinterested attention to the state and needs of the schools of the whole town. And we believe that this method of making a school report is coming to be generally regarded by school officers as more profitable than the old special district report, with its tameness and sameness, its varnishing of facts, and its endless phrasing upon the varied characteristics and methods of the different teachers.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.

The inauguration of the free text book system in the schools of the state, and the operation of this experiment, is naturally the first subject of comment in a report of our schools.

The appropriation of the town for this purpose for the school year, was $300. The amount expended for books, $289.27. Thus leaving an unexpended balance of $10.73 in favor of the town.

We have carefully avoided making changes in text-books not absolutely essential to the best interests of the schools, making sure, at the very start, that all books which were bought were of the best kind, and destined to last. The readers which have been in use in the town for a term of years, and had not given entire satisfaction, and had practically outlived their usefulness. The old readers have been exchanged for the Stickney Series of readers, and about one-half of the schools have been thus supplied.

The Eclectic Geographies, now in use, are quite thoroughly out of date, and behind the times. But for the cost we should have made the desired change this year. With the generous appropriation to be made, and the incoming administration of school matters, we leave this responsibility.

In History, there were found to be several different text-books in use in schools ; none of them entirely satisfactory. We believe in the adoption of Montgomery's United States History, a text-book has been secured superior to any of them for the purposes of school-room instruction. Ellis Primary History, also in use in the schools, is intended for pupils whose opportunities will not permit the larger and more elaborate History.

Conklin's complete graded course in English Grammar and Composition has been adopted for the use of beginners, thus affording a more simple and easy introduction to this never very attractive study.

The following books have been retained as being for the most part, satisfactory : White's and Colburn's Arithmetic, Harvey's Grammar, Harrington's Speller, Greenleaf's Algebra, Steele's Physiology, Meservey's Book Keeping.

All the books have been purchased at the lowest prices possible ; and it seems as though there must be, on the whole, a substantial saving in expense to the people of the town.

The purchase, care and distribution of the books have been found to involve a great deal of vexatious labor, and trouble—much more than most anticipate, or there can be realized by any one except the school officers themselves.

It is not too much to say that by the adoption of the town system, and the establishment of the free text-book system, the work of the School Supervisors have been largely increased.

We have been gratified to note that the books have, in the main, been well taken care of, and returned in good condition.

To meet the wants of the coming year, including a complete new supply of Geographies, which we think is absolutely necessary should be procured, we estimate there will be needed about the same amount as appropriated last year, viz : $300.

TEACHERS.

Our schools have been favored, in most cases, the past year with capable and faithful teachers, who have striven zealously, and in the main with success to secure the best results.

Where this is the case, such tried and successful teachers ought to be retained in their places. If a teacher has done well one term, she will be likely to do better the next. No one will accomplish so much in a new position, unacquainted with her scholars, and her scholars unused to her, as when the methods of one and the needs of the other have been thoroughly learned, and both teacher and pupil are working in sympathy and unison.

New teachers, too, always put scholars back in order to see how thorough past work has been, and discouragement and indifference, as a rule, are the results.

It is never possible to tell with certainty beforehand whether a person, hitherto untried, will make a good teacher or not, and especially whether he or she is well adapted to any particular school.

This can only be determined by actual trial ; and when the trial has once been made and proved successful, there should be an end of experimenting. Young and inexperienced teachers should, as a rule, be employed only in the smaller and easier schools, both for their own good, and the good of the scholars. We think there is no good ground for the notion that while a female teacher may be employed for the summer terms, a male teacher is necessary for the winter term, thus compelling a change in the middle of the year. A good female teacher can handle any school we have in town, summer or winter. But few changes have been made in teachers the past year. Miss Hurd resigned her position as assistant in the High School at the close of the spring term, and Miss Eulalie M. Abbott, a resident of the town, and a graduate of Gorham Normal School, was secured to fill the place thus made vacant. Miss Hattie E. Clark has had charge of the Cross Road School made vacant by the resignation of Miss Spencer, who was transferred to District No. 8.

The work of the teachers in nearly every case, has been especially satisfactory in their respective schools.

UNITING OF SCHOOLS.

Districts No. 12 and 6 united in the Fall and Winter terms. Also, Districts No. 8 and No. 9 were united in the Winter term. The expense of transporting the scholars from one District to the other being but small compared with that of running a separate school. This matter should not be overlooked in the year to come.

SCHOOL HOUSES.

A good school house is an ornament to the town, and a credit to the District where it is located ; a blessing to the children and a source of gratification to all interested in the success of the schools.

New front steps and other repairs are needed on the High School House ; also, in District Nos. 1, 4 and 10. The most of the school buildings are decidedly barren of those aids and appliances of teaching which no good school room ought to be without. There are but a few maps, charts or globes in our schools ; and in the primary departments where most needed, everything is left to the ingenuity of the teacher.

The town should complete the good work begun by supplying these and other requisite appliances.

These things are an aid in teaching that ought not to be neglected.

INTEREST OF PARENTS.

There is no way in which parental interest can be made more effectual , both upon scholars and teachers, than by frequent visits to the schools. And there is no other way in which correct ideas and information in regard to the schools can be obtained. By such visits those petty misunderstandings which frequently occur between parents and teachers would be generally avoided. And while we would have parents come into closer contact with the schools, we must none the less condemn all interference with the discipline of the schools, and upholding children in their difficulties with the teacher. Let the teachers cultivate closer acquaintance with parents, calling upon them, and inviting visits to the schools in return.

ATTENDANCE.

Parents are largely responsible for the irregular attendance of their children, not only by failing to look after and correct truancy, but oftentimes by wilfully keeping them out of school to work. No child between six and sixteen years can be so well and profitably employed anywhere else as in the school-room. The law in reference to compulsory attendance should be more thoroughly enforced in this town than it is.

Money : Paid Treasurer of town for books sold, $3.50.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

In closing this school report we will summarize the recommendations we have previously made :

1. An appropriation of $300 for text-books, &c.
2. The securing of the services of tried and experienced teachers as far as possible.
3. The consolidation of the schools in Districts No. 6, 7 and 12 ; also of Districts No. 8 and 9.
4. An appropriation sufficient to give at least 36 weeks of school in the year.
5. An appropriation for the support of a town High School.

With this report we append an abstract of teachers registers for the several school terms of the year.

FRANCIS GROVENOR, Supervisor of Schools.

REPORT

OF THE

Local Board of Health.

During the past year complaint has been received of ten nuisances, all of which have been investigated and removed. By request of the Supervisor of Schools, we have thoroughly disinfected one school house on account of diphtheria.

Three cases of diphtheria have occurred, with but one recovery; and one case of scarlet fever, which proved fatal. There have also been three cases of typhoid fever, all of which terminated in recovery.

Each outbreak of contagious disease has been confined to the first house. Premises have been visited and inspected. Entrances have been placarded, and the families supplied with circulars from the State Board of Health, and disinfection has followed each recovery or death.

We have held four regular meetings, and many special consultations. Some undecided questions concerning contagious diseases and small pox have multiplied the demand for communications between the Local and State Boards of Health. On account of some stir which has been made concerning small pox, and various communications received from the State Board of Health on the subject, we conclude that it would be for the general benefit of the inhabitants of the town of Berwick that the following be inserted within our report, and printed in the annual report of the Selectmen.

Extract from the Health Laws of the State of Maine, Chapter 172 of 1893 :

“The Board of Health of each city, village, town and plantation shall annually, on the first day of March, or oftener if they deem it prudent, provide for the free vaccination with the cow pox, of all the inhabitants over two years of age, within their respective localities, to be done under the care of skilled, practicing physicians, and under such circumstances and restrictions as said authorities adopt therefor.”

DOES VACCINATION PROTECT?

We find that the correct answer to this question is not so clearly in the minds of the people generally, as it should be, therefore these facts are given. Almost one hundred years ago Jenner discovered that, when a person is inoculated with cow-pox virus so as to have cow-pox, the attack of this lighter disease gives immunity from the much more dangerous disease, small pox. The announcement of his discovery was met with incredulity. Jenner had vaccinated a boy eight years old who had never had small-pox. He said to the incredulous medical men of the day: “If you think the boy is not protected from small-pox give him the small-pox if you can." They did not shut him up with small-pox patients, but they used a surer method. They inoculated the boy with small-pox virus. It did not take. They tried it again with the same result, and repeated it many times carefully until the inoculation had been done twenty times with twenty failures. Then they had to acknowledge that the boy was protected.

The most common popular fallacy in this matter is that vaccination does not prevent one from having small-pox, but only makes the disease milder if one takes it. The truth is that, when successfully done, and not done too long ago, the protection is almost absolutely perfect.

In Brussels, out of more than 10,000 children vaccinated in 1869-70, not one case was reported as having been attacked by the terrible epidemic of small-pox which swept over Europe soon after. Dr. Warlomont, who reported these facts, says that he has made a number of appeals for information as to cases of small-pox after vaccination with animal virus, but so far without result. Others have made similar requests, and have offered large rewards for such information, but without avail.

In a severe epidemic of small-pox, which swept over the island of Hayti in 1881-82, Dr. Terres says that, although attending two or three hundred severe cases every day, neither he or any of his family or servants took the disease (thirteen persons in all), their only protection being successful vaccination. The scholars and teachers of three schools (five hundred in all) were successfully vaccinated, and only one case occurred. Dr. Terres states that not a single death occurred among vaccinated persons.

Dr. Dunn, of Minnesota, contrasts the histories of two families, one vaccinated and the other not. "The families are of the same size, living two miles apart. The ages are nearly the same. On account of carelessness or parsimony, neither family had been vaccinated. Small-pox enters one; still they take no preventive measures. The disease has the same scope as it had in the days before vaccination, and it quickly shows itself to be the same old pest that it was before the immortal Jenner robbed it of its terrors. Of the nine unprotected persons it rapidly destroys three, ruins an eye for yet another, and scars the other five, four of them girls, in a frightful way.

"The other family of ten hear that they have been exposed to small-pox, not aware that the disease has already been for ten days operating in the system of one of its members. They are vaccinated with reliable bovine lymph. Two days later one of the ten comes down with small-pox, which runs a mild course. They are all daily and nightly exposed to the disease, their vaccinations work well, and not one of them is attacked."

Dr. Henry Tomkins, Medical Superintendent of the fever Hospital belonging to the Manchester Royal Infirmary at Monsall, in a paper read at Owens College, said:

"The most striking of all evidence is, perhaps, that derived from the small-pox hospitals themselves. Here the protective influence of vaccination is seen and proved in a manner beyond all cavil. At Highgate, during an experience of forty years, no nurse or servant having been re-vaccinated has ever contracted disease, and evidence of the same character I can, myself bring forward; for, during the whole time that I have had charge of the fever hospital, more than a thousand cases of small-pox have passed under my care, yet no servant, nurse, porter or other person engaged there, has, after re-vaccination ever taken it, though exposed daily to infection in its most concentrated form. Again, among all the students who, during the past two years have attended the hospital for clinical instruction, not one has suffered, all having been re-vaccinated before having been permitted to enter the small-pox wards.

Dr. O. W. Wight, Health officer of Detroit, says: "During the winter of 1881-2, when small-pox was epidemic, I allowed fourteen well persons to go to the pest house in the city of Detroit, who wished to take charge of other members of their families removed there on account of the disease. All of them were vaccinated at the time of going. Not one of them had even a slight attack of varioloid. When the anti-vaccinationists will show half, or even a quarter the number of unvaccinated persons exposed in the midst of the sick and the dying to concentrated contagion without the least injury, I will then listen patiently to their arguments."

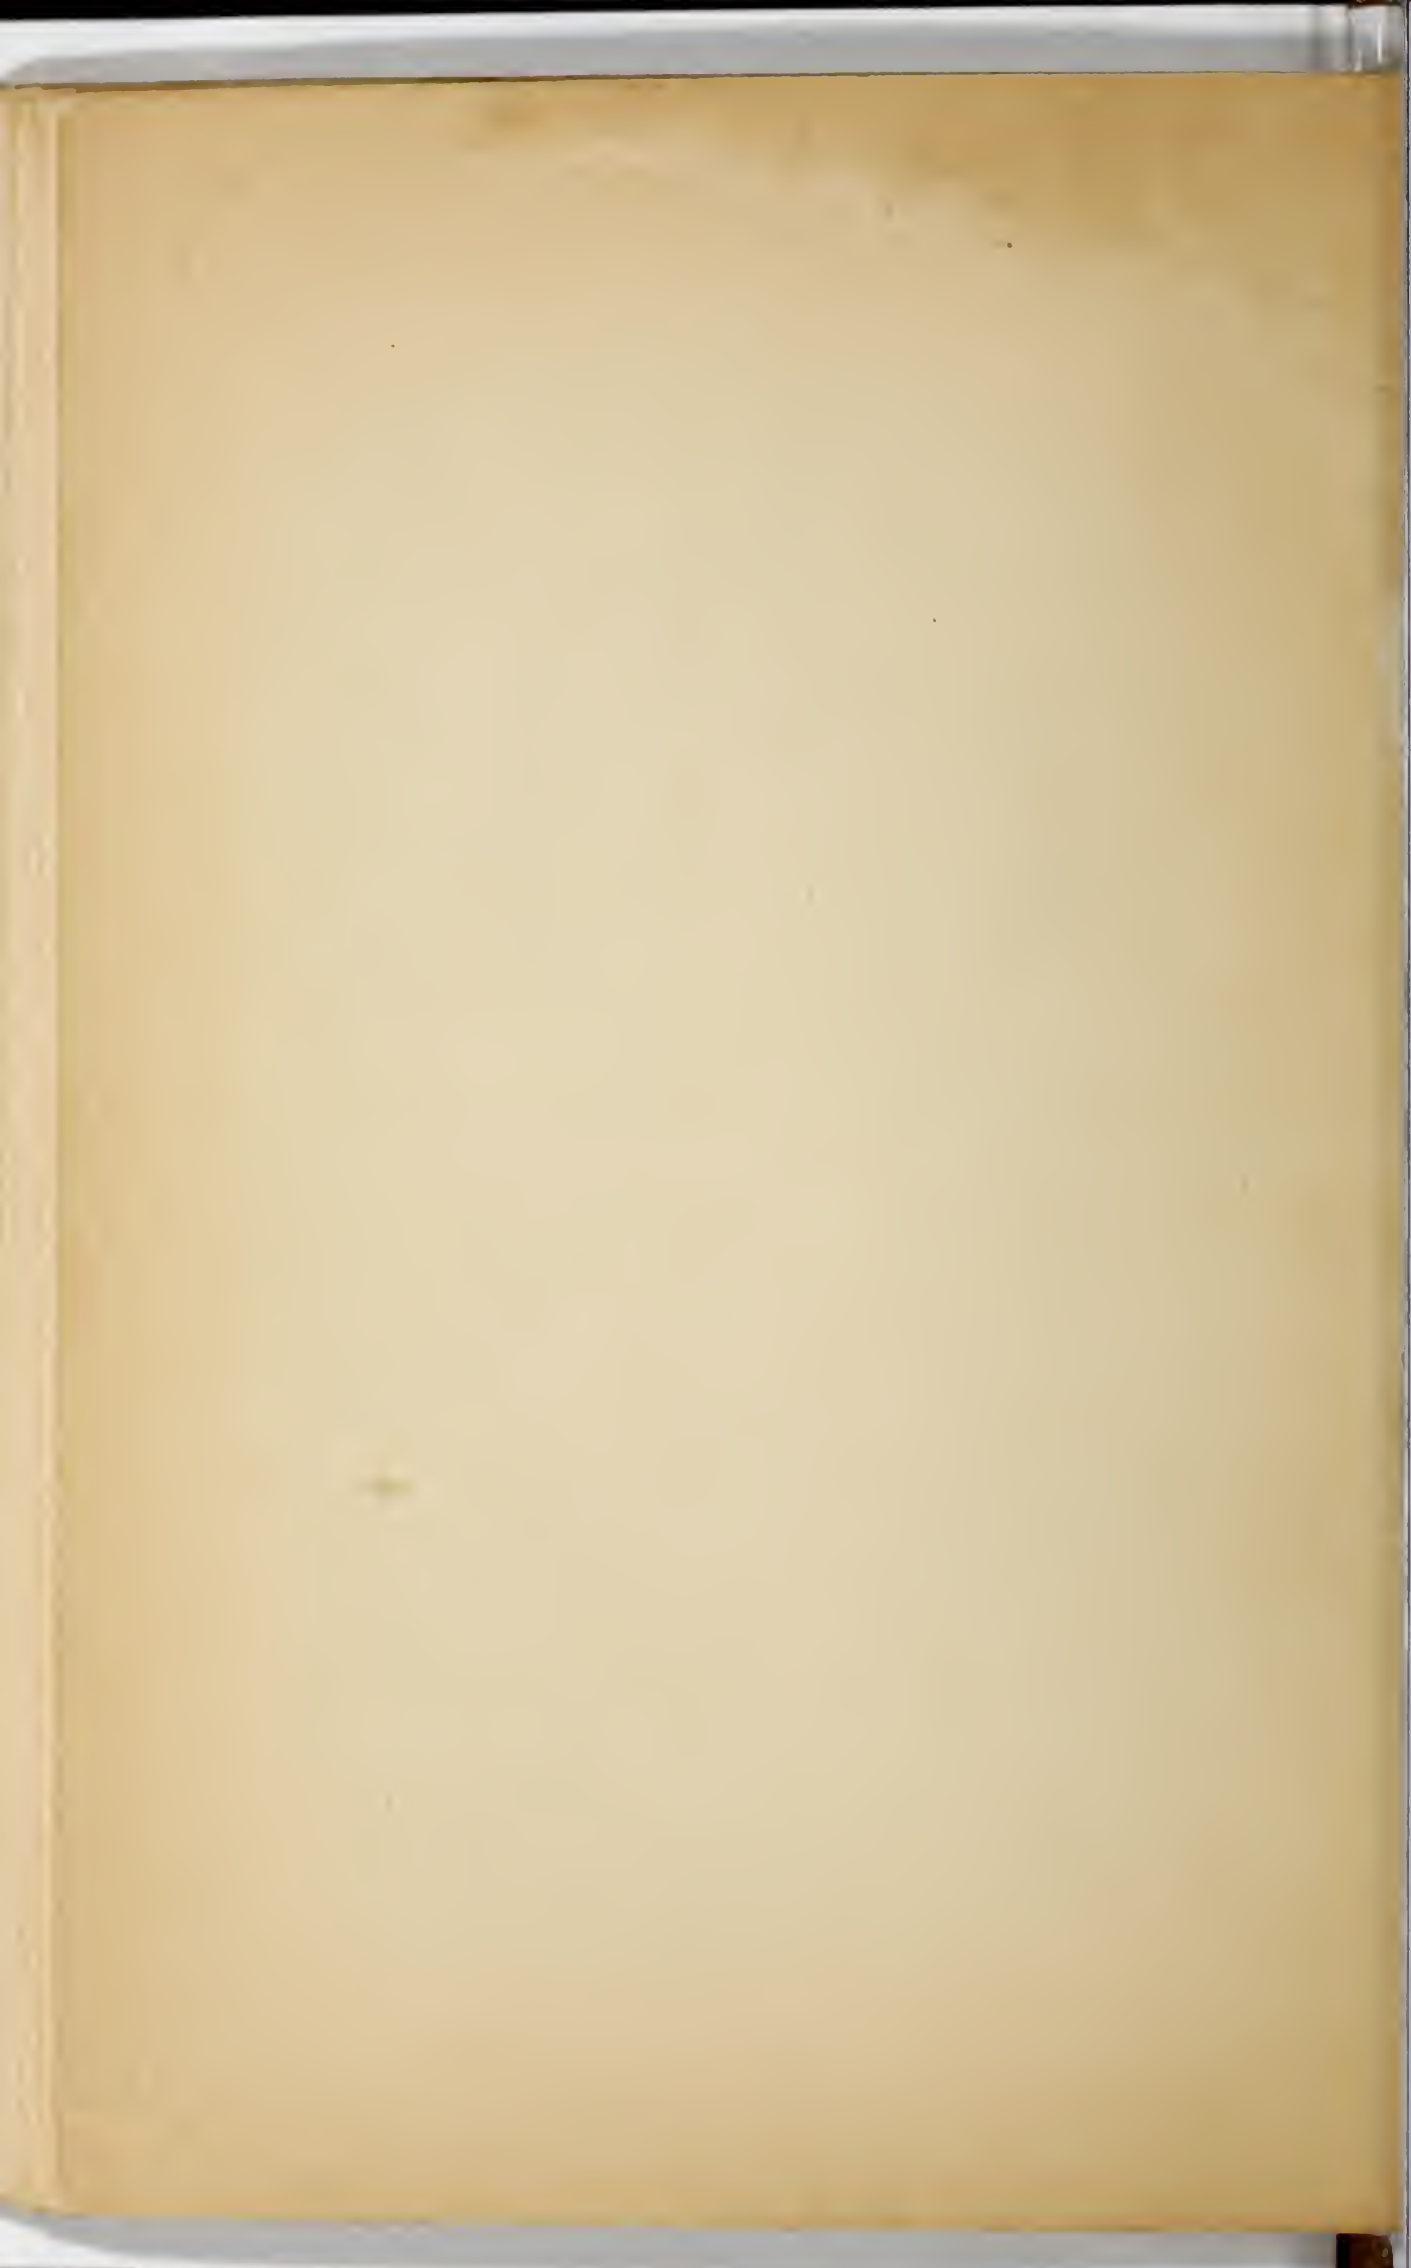

Facts and cases by the hundred throwing the weight of their testimony all in the same direction, could be culled from sanitary and medical literature, but these few probably sufficiently show that vaccination prevents a person from "catching" small-pox. If the vaccination is imperfect, or done many years ago, it still may be worth much in mitigating the disease and converting it into "varioloid."

In conclusion, we would hereby make known, that in complying with the above State Laws, we have engaged Drs. P. B. Young and H. V. Noyes to furnish free vaccination during the months of March and April of 1894, to any of the inhabitants of the town of Berwick who may desire to avail themselves of the opportunity.

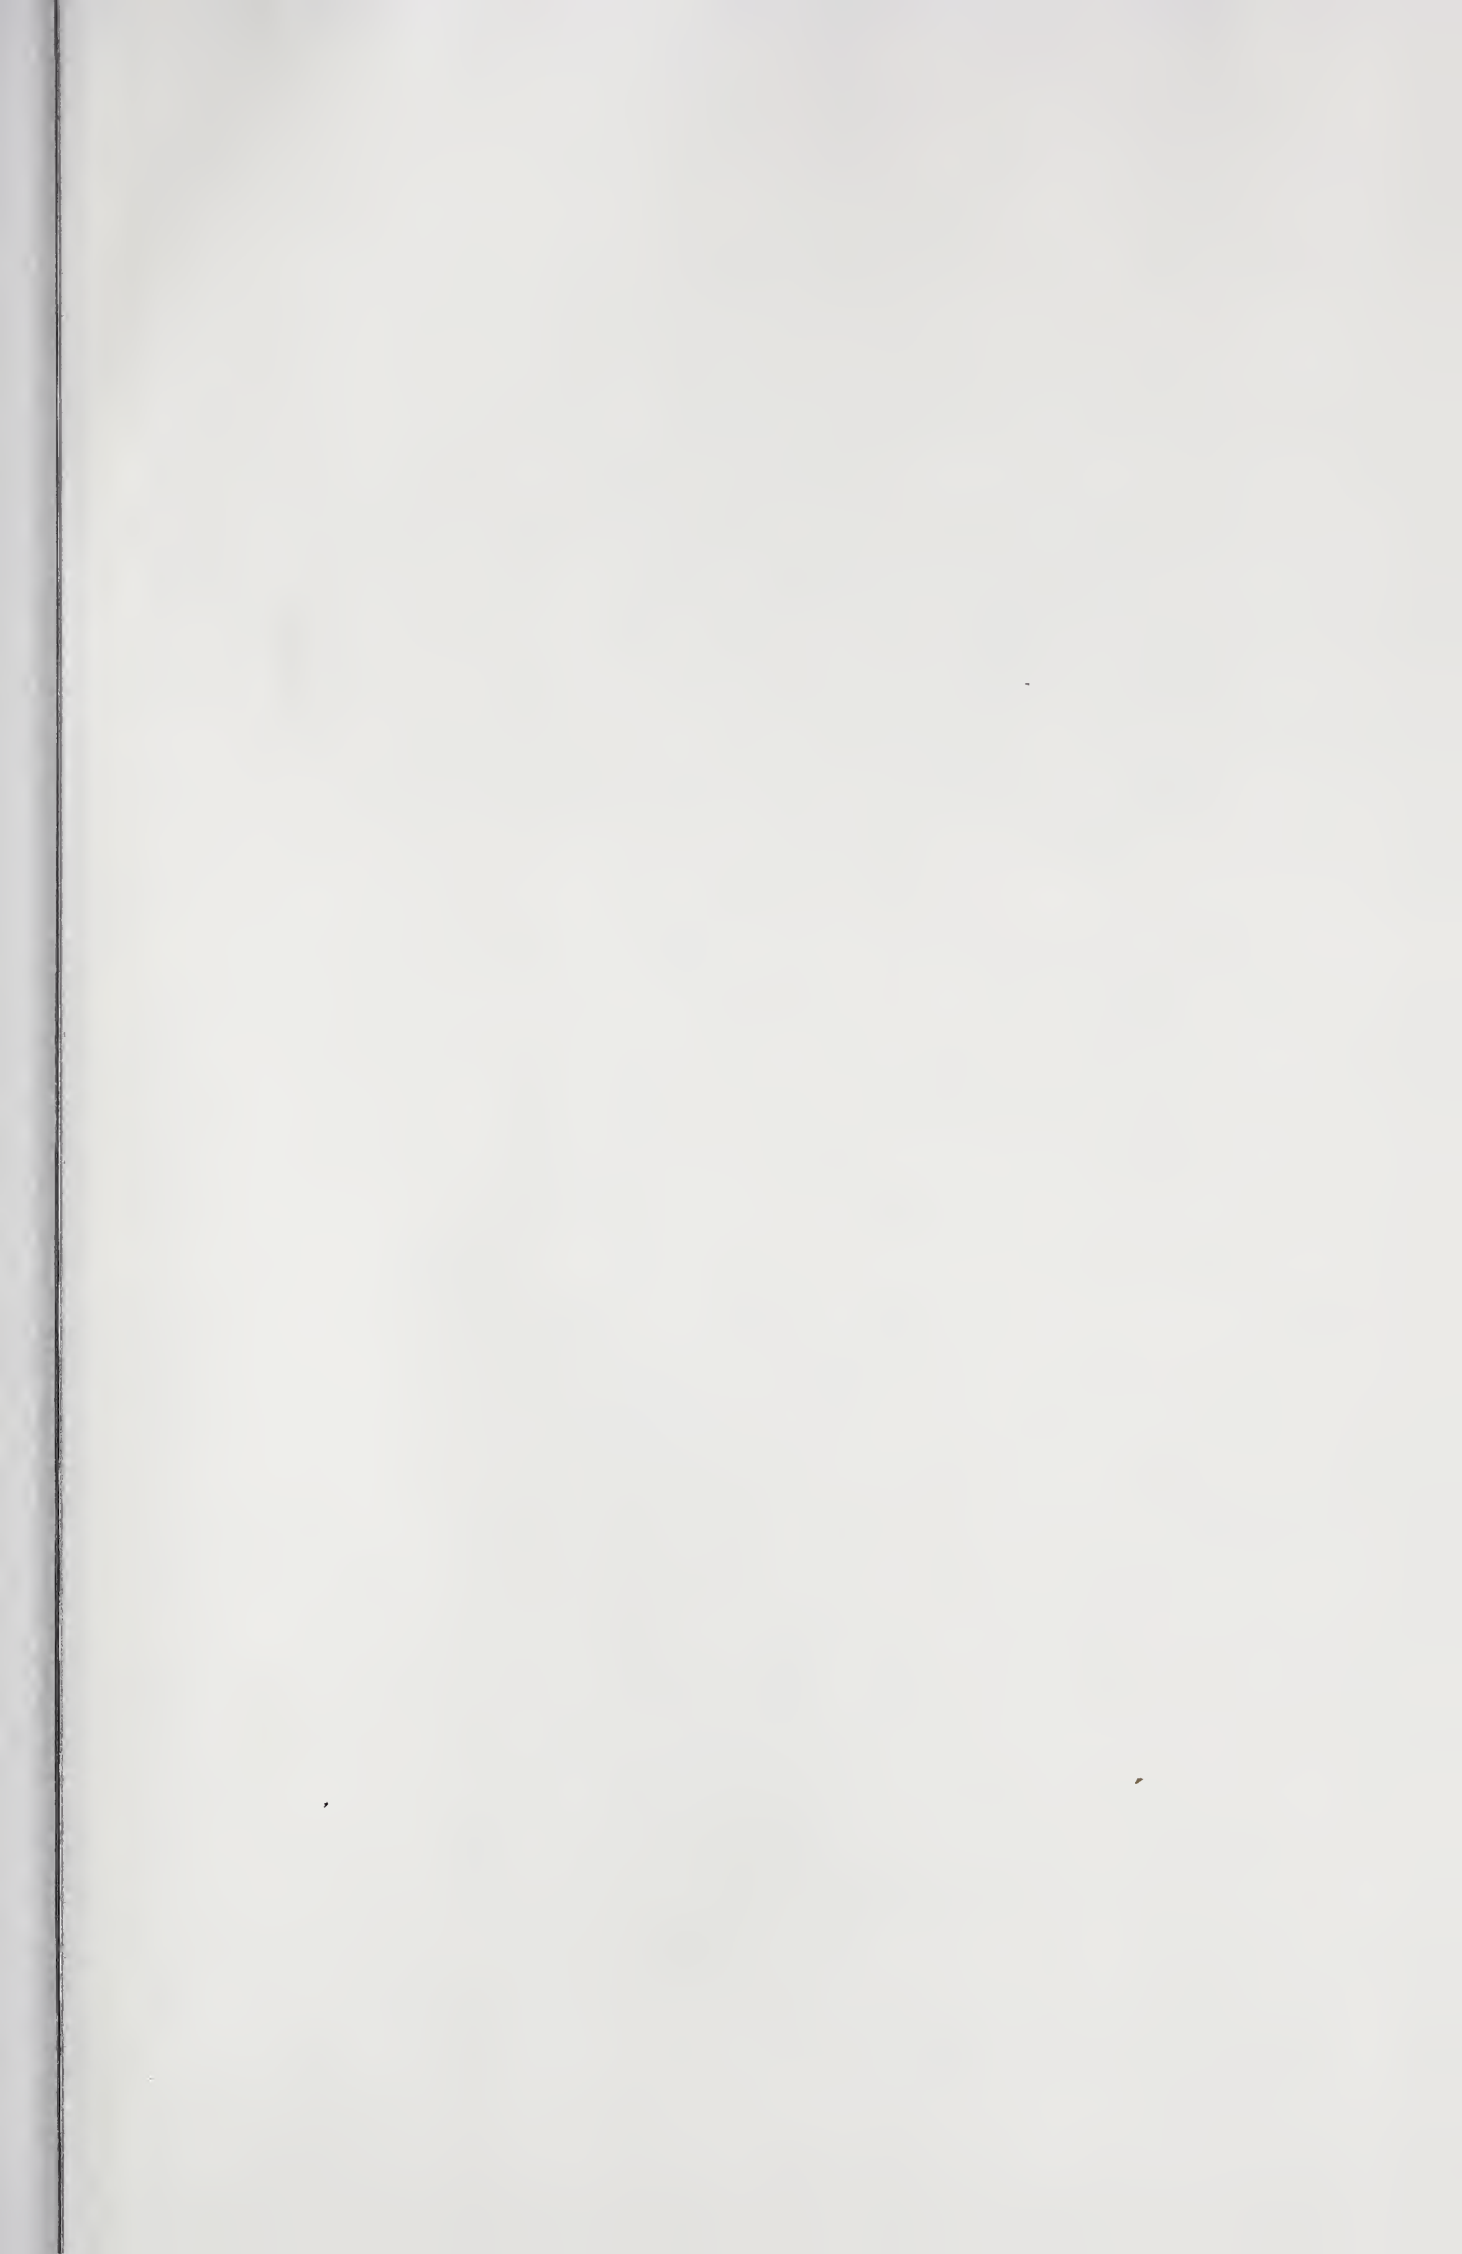

Respectfully submitted,

P. B. YOUNG, Sec'y Local of Board.
